

FISHING AND THE RAILWAY FISH TRAFFIC

This file provides a series of articles on the topic, as follows:-

- OCTOBER 1848: The section about Fish Traffic in an article on Railway Statistics taken from The Civil Engineer And Architect's Journal for that month. (The complete 22-page article is available in the GERS Files Emporium as File RH077).
  - FEBRUARY 1912: 'The Yarmouth Herring Fishery', from that month's Great Eastern Railway Magazine.
  - MARCH 1912: An article from this month's Railway Magazine entitled 'Railways and the Growth of Industries - The Lowestoft Fish Traffic'.
  - OCTOBER 1914: A survey of herring fisheries, in the Great Eastern Railway Magazine.
  - DECEMBER 1914: Sprat fishing at Aldeburgh, as described in the Great Eastern Railway Magazine.
  - DECEMBER 1928: 'Fish Traffic on the LNER' from that month's Railway Magazine.
  - SEPTEMBER 1950: 'Fish Vans for British Railways' in that month's Railway Magazine, describing an improved design being built at Darlington.
  - THE EAST ANGLIAN HERRING SEASON 1951: A British Railways circular describing the special workings from Yarmouth and Lowestoft which were planned for that period (also available on its own as File TW049).
-